Children in care Spurred to glory

CHILDREN and young people in council care were recognised for their outstanding educational achievements at a ceremony at Tottenham Hotspur Football Club.

More than 140 children in the care of Haringey Council were honoured at the 11th Aiming Higher awards, which recognise learning attainment, leadership and other qualities including responsibility and community involvement.

There was extra cause for celebration as Haringey's Looked After Children achieved the third best GCSE results of any local authority in the country.

The event was organised by the council's Virtual School of Children in Care and supported by the Tottenham Hotspur Foundation with Spurs player Etienne Capoue on hand to congratulate the winners and present the awards.

Ann Waters, cabinet member for children and families, said: "The fantastic performance of Haringey's Looked After

Winner: Grant Cornwell, of the Tottenham Hotspur Foundation, with Spurs player Etienne Capoue and one of the award winners

Children at GCSE level shows the huge amount of potential that exists in this borough." Grant Cornwell, chief executive of the Tottenham Hotspur Foundation, added: "We're committed to delivering opportunities that change lives and, through the support of Haringey Council, we provide looked after children in our community with the network, tools and guidance they need to build a positive, stable future."

A VISION FOR NEW JOBS AND HOMES

Council unveils plans to transform Wood Green

By Russ Lawrence

russ.lawrence@nlhnews.co.uk

A BLUEPRINT for the future of Wood Green has been unveiled aimed at attracting millions of pounds of major investment, new jobs and key improvements to the High Road.

A strategy bringing together various regeneration schemes and vacant underused land into one co-ordinated plan has been approved by Haringey Council's cabinet.

The Wood Green Investment Framework will ensure new developments in the area, such as a mix of high quality homes, new employment space and better shops, restaurants and public spaces, are delivered in a co-ordinated rather than haphazard fashion.

"Bringing long-term regeneration to Wood Green is crucial to make sure local people have the best opportunities to fulfil their potential and feel the benefit of huge infrastructure improvements," said Alan Strickland, cabinet member for regeneration and housing.

"We know that thousands of people are rightly proud to live and work here, but we also know that new investment is needed to secure a positive future for Wood Green.

"We can't do this alone and we will work closely with landowners, residents and traders to deliver much-needed housing, create new job opportunities and support successful local businesses," he added.

The comprehensive strategy aims to make the most of proposed new Crossrail 2 stations at Turnpike Lane and Alexandra Palace, helping more Haringey families get on the housing ladder and finding long-lasting employment while attracting new shoppers to a vibrant and successful high street.

A key focus will be improved connections between the town centre and the new homes, jobs and public facilities being created to the west, bringing more visitors to Wood Green's existing cultural activities at the Chocolate Factory.

And with a £4.2million scheme to revamp Wood Green's public spaces already under way, a co-ordinated approach to regeneration will also mean improved links to Noel Park and Alexandra Palace.

The council is aiming to speak to people and businesses in the borough to set out the scope of the investment framework before appointing a specialist team to develop a dedicated spatial and economic plan for the area next year.

Police appeal after teenage rider's death

POLICE are appealing for information following an accident in which a teenage moped rider died in South Tottenham on Sunday.

Officers were called to reports of a collision between a moped and two cars in Seven Sisters Road, at the junction with Moreton Road, just after 1pm.

London Ambulance Service and London's Air Ambulance were called and provided medical assistance to the moped rider, an 18-year-old, but he died at the scene of the collision.

Detectives are in the early stages of their investigation and believe that the moped rider was part of a convoy travelling north when he collided with a black Ford Focus and was thrown into the path of a red Volkswagen Polo.

Next of kin have been informed, but formal identification of the victim is yet to take place, police said.

A post-mortem will be scheduled in due course.

Detective Sergeant Jane Mallet, from the Met's serious collision investigation unit, said: "This is a busy road and the accident took place when there were many vehicles travelling in both directions.

"I am keen to hear from anyone who has any information that could assist us with our investigation."

Anyone who witnessed the incident, or has any information about it, is urged to contact the unit on 020 8991 9555 or, to remain anonymous, contact Crimestoppers on 0800 555 111.

Takeaway ban near schools provides food for thought

HEALTH bosses have cautiously welcomed proposals that could see takeaways banned from opening close to schools and taxes slapped on fizzy drinks and sweets.

A raft of radical proposals aimed at improving the health of Londoners was put forward by surgeon Lord Darzi in a report commissioned by the Mayor of London Boris Johnson and published last week. The report outlines the dire crisis facing the capital, which has the highest rate of childhood obesity of any major global city.

Lord Darzi states: "London's obesity emergency is a national disgrace." Warning of the ticking timebomb that childhood obesity poses, he adds: "The healthy choice is too often the hardest choice and too many people know too little about what a good and varied diet should be."

He says that all London boroughs should follow in the footsteps of Barking and Dagenham, Tower Hamlets and Waltham Forest by refusing permission for fast food outlets to open within 400 metres of schools.

He also suggests instigating some form of "sugar tax".

Rohini Simbodayal, Enfield Council's cabinet member for culture, sport, youth and public health, said: "We welcome new ways that will help us continue to improve in this area and we are examining the recommendations carefully. We will respond fully regarding them in due course when we have a fuller idea of what the impact on the borough will be."

'Boulevard' planned as the backbone of £1.5bn development

By Koos Couvée

koos.couvee@nlhnews.co.uk

PLANS have been unveiled for a "boulevard" that council chiefs say will form the "backbone" of the first phase of the £1.5billion Meridian Water development.

Enfield Council's cabinet is expected to give the go-ahead this evening for the road, a "central causeway" linking the eastern and western sides of the proposed development located between Angel Road, Edmonton, and the River Lea.

The authority, which intends to borrow £14million from the government to fund the road, says the 26-metre-wide "treelined city street" with segregated routes for cyclists and pedestrians will "transform" the area between Glover Drive and the river.

It believes that funding the construction of the boulevard itself will give developers the confidence that the scheme is definitely going ahead and bring forward more quickly the 2,650 new homes that are part of the planned first phase.

Describing the decision as a "milestone", Ahmet Oykener, cabinet member for housing and estate regeneration, said: "With detailed plans for the boulevard, this scheme is becoming reality now. We are pressing ahead and it is happening. I am very excited because we are all aware of the shortage of housing in the borough."

If agreed, the council says the boulevard will form the "backbone" of the development, the "core element" of the scheme around which new neighbourhoods will be built. The council hopes to see the creation of 5,000 new homes, 3,000 new jobs and improved public transport links and infrastructure, including schools, shops and a police station.

Edward Smith, Conservative spokesman for housing, said: "We are not opposed to the council's approach as this is a big scheme and the public sector has to take a lead, but it still has a number of hurdles to cross. They have been at this for five years now and need to make more progress."

Last week the council announced that negotiations with National Grid for the proposed purchase of the first site of the development were close to completion, a year after councillors decided to buy it. The council is also negotiating about two adjacent sites, one owned by Ikea and another by Dwyer Property Plc.

If agreed, it is hoped that construction work on the boulevard will start in April.

It's a borderline clean-up

Allegation we're on the wrong side of a great divide as litter is removed from alley

By Ruth McKee

ruth.mckee@nlhnews.co.uk

A DIMLY lit alleyway on the borough's boundary with Haringey once notorious for litter and filth has been spruced up – but only as far as the border with Enfield.

The alleyway that runs alongside the railway track outside Bowes Park station to Bounds Green Road had, until recently, a pervasive air of neglect and had even been nicknamed “poo alley” – but, after a string of complaints from residents, Haringey Council bosses took matters into their own hands and set out to clean up the litter-strewn pathway.

Haringey councillor for Bounds Green ward Ali Demerci told the Advertiser that he and his colleagues had seen for themselves the poor state of the alley as they walked through the area – and decided to roll up their sleeves and get their hands dirty.

“We asked Network Rail to meet us at the site as they own the land – and they were a fantastic help,” he said. “As councillors there is no job too dirty or too big for us to tackle.”

However, while much of the alleyway has been given a new lease of life, commentators on the Bowes and Bounds Connected neighbourhood forum wryly pointed out that the section of the alleyway that is classed as being in the borough of Enfield looks somewhat more neglected than the Haringey side.

Haringey's cabinet member for the environment Stuart McNamara, told the Advertiser: “It is not our job to clean up Enfield, but we are talking to our counterparts – the Bowes ward councillors – about this.

Getting their hands dirty: Haringey councillors Ali Demerci and Stuart McNamara in the alleyway next to Bowes Park station

Mr Demerci added that clearing the rubbish was only the beginning of a fresh bid to clean up the whole borough. “It really is much tidier now and we will be working with residents, so hopefully we can make it better than ever,” he said.

An Enfield Council spokesman denied that the authority had been shown up by its conscientious neighbours.

He said: “We clean this alleyway every Tuesday, the problem with fouling is caused by inconsiderate dog owners who refuse to clean up after their pets and instead believe that it is fair for other people, including children who use the alleyway, to dodge the mess they cause.”

Sudden death of Methodist minister sparks tributes to man 'full of grace'

“A FANTASTIC preacher” and a “man who was full of grace” is how friends have described a much-loved Methodist minister who has died suddenly.

Reverend Geoff Cornell, 64, of Queen Elizabeth's Drive, Oakwood, was the superintendent of the Methodist circuit in Enfield.

He collapsed on Sunday, October 12, at Edmonton Methodist Church, in Fore Street, Edmonton, where he was due to preach that morning.

The minister had been serving the congregation in Enfield for seven years and before that he had worked at the Hinde Street ministry, in Marylebone, one of the most significant church gatherings for Methodists in London.

Reverend Kathleen Richardson had studied with Mr Cornell in Cambridge and had been attending his services since retiring to Southgate.

“He was a fantastic preacher,” she told the Advertiser. “His sermons were wonderful. He was interested in art, poetry and music – and he would draw on these things to illustrate his sermons.”

As well as serving in senior positions in the Methodist church in London, early in his career he had taught in Kenya and had been involved in training other ministers.

Fellow minister and friend Mark Wakelin stood in for Mr Cornell last year when he was on sabbatical and described his friend as a “fantastic minister” who was entirely “full of grace” for everyone he met, regardless of whether he agreed with them or not.

“He had his own strongly held views about things, but he would always listen to other people,” said Mr Wakelin.

He added that Mr Cornell's death was “a great loss” to everyone who knew him.

A man for all seasons: Geoff Cornell

“He was hugely respected by his colleagues and was much-loved by his friends and family,” added Mr Wakelin. “I feel he had a lot more mischief to let loose on the church.”

Reverend Kenneth Howcroft, another close colleague and friend of the father-of-three, described him as a man whose laugh would “light up a room”.

“You could walk into a room and know whether Geoff was there just by hearing his laugh,” he said. “He will be missed very much.”

He is survived by his wife Christine, their son and two daughters and a grandchild.

Near-miss: The scene of the accident and, inset, damage to the home

Block falls on home

By Koos Couvée

koos.couvee@nlhnews.co.uk

AN ELDERLY woman was lucky to escape death when the lifting block of a tower crane fell on her house in Edmonton on Saturday morning.

Neighbours said the woman, believed to be her in 70s and living with her son in Cowper Road, was in the kitchen when the piece of equipment crashed into her home at 10.30am, damaging part of the roof and destroying a large section of the back of the property. Luckily, she escaped unharmed.

Lifting blocks are used to raise heavy building materials at high-rise developments and can weigh several tonnes.

The object dropped from a crane being used in the construction of the new Highmead Estate, in Fore Street, where 118 new homes, including an eight-storey block of flats, are being built.

Lorna Graham, a mother-of-two who lives and works in the area, said the impact of the lifting block had felt like an "earthquake".

She told the Advertiser: "Everyone in this terrace felt it coming down, people have told me they initially thought it was an earthquake. The thing came down from the crane and ended up on the bottom floor, while the lady was not far from it, in her kitchen. It was very close."

Work on the site is being carried out by Countryside Properties, the developer chosen by Enfield Council to build the estate.

David Everett, managing director of Countryside Regeneration South, said: "We are undertaking our own investigation with our crane supplier. We are in contact with the family and have dedicated a member of staff to liaise with them during this time."

The Health and Safety Executive is investigating.

Abduction alert after schoolgirls are approached

By Ruth McKee

ruth.mckee@nlhnews.co.uk

A BOROUGH-WIDE panic over a stranger danger alert issued by schools in the wake of an abduction attempt could have been sparked by social media.

John Richardson, assistant headteacher at Kingsmead School, in Southbury Road, Enfield, told the Advertiser that two students, a 16-year-old girl and her 11-year-sister, were approached by a man and a woman in a van on Monday last week.

The girls' parents told the police, who, in turn, alerted the school.

Mr Richardson said that while staff knew of the incident the school had made a choice not to "frighten or panic" pupils.

"We have two full-time security staff stationed at bus stops every afternoon and senior teachers patrol areas around the school," he said.

However, as police had issued alerts to all schools about the incident, the news spread to parents' groups on Facebook, where speculation mounted over the extent of the danger.

The Advertiser can reveal that police have said that only one such incident has been reported to them in the past week – when the two girls were approached in Savoy Parade, off Southbury Road, at 4pm last Monday.

Detective Inspector Yasmin Lalani, from Enfield CID, said: "I would always ask parents to remind children about the importance of not talking to or going with strangers. Equally, parents should ensure they are happy with their children's whereabouts at all times.

"If any children know about any incidents where either they or a friend have been approached by a stranger in circumstances that cause concern, they should contact police without delay."

Police are continuing to appeal for information about last week's incident. Both suspects are described as white and aged about 50. The man had close cropped hair and the woman had a bob-style haircut. Anyone with information can call 101, or Crimestoppers anonymously on 0800 555 111.

Mr Richardson stressed that all staff members were extra-vigilant in the wake of the incident and added: "Obviously, all of our staff are aware and we are going to keeping our eyes and ears open at all times."

Free parking for 15 minutes too little, says traders' leader

By Koos Couvée

koos.couvee@nlhnews.co.uk

A PILOT scheme offering drivers 15 minutes' free parking at five town centres across the borough has been branded "too little, too small" by the leader of a group of traders.

Costas Georgiou, who is chairman of the Green Lanes Business Association, based in Palmers Green, has criticised a new initiative by Enfield Council that will see 11 free "stop and shop" parking spaces introduced.

The scheme, aimed at boosting trade in the borough, will consist of two spaces in Enfield Town, two in Green Lanes, Winchmore Hill, three in Chase Side, Southgate, two in Ponders End High Street and two in Hertford Road, Enfield Highway.

But Mr Georgiou said the initiative would achieve very little. "Around the pay and display areas we need at least 20 minutes of free parking and in town centres, for example, at least on one whole side of the road," he said.

"That would make a difference and we have been campaigning for this for years. If there are just two bays, they won't even be noticed by people and won't make much difference.

"The council needs to understand that, for example, if an old lady needs to go into a shop and there is a queue, 15 minutes is not enough time. It's even worse that Palmers Green is not included, I feel we've been treated unfairly."

The council says the scheme is the result of talks with businesses and comes as part of "wider efforts to encourage residents to shop locally and boost the borough's town centres". If the scheme proves successful, it could be expanded or spread to other locations.

Chris Bond, cabinet member for environment and community safety, said: "We recognise that parking is of massive importance to our town centres and we work closely with shop owners to make sure there are enough parking spaces offered and they are affordable and near shops."

"Business owners said it would boost their trade if we introduced free parking for quarter of an hour so that people who want to pop to their local shops can do so without having to buy a pay and display ticket. We've listened to what they said and we'll be trialling this scheme to see how successful it is."

Crackdown on violence

By Koos Couvée

koos.couvee@nlhnews.co.uk

POLICE are hunting violent offenders and cracking down on street drinking hotspots across the borough as part of a London-wide operation aimed at reducing violent crime.

Two sergeants and 12 constables from Enfield Police are working full-time to target areas affected by violence as part of Operation Equinox, launched by the Met this month following a 17.2 per cent spike in violence with injury offences across the capital over the past year.

The offences include grievous bodily harm and assault with injury, and knife and gun crime.

In Enfield, there has been a 12 per cent increase in this type of crime over the past 12 months with the number of offences rising to 1,293, up from 1,156 between October 2012 and October 2013.

Detective Chief Inspector Paul Healy, who is responsible for neighbourhood policing and crime reduction, said the "coordinated crack-down" will see officers track down some of the worst offenders.

Among those suspects are Martin Mongan, 21, Patrick Kosolo, 33, Billy Thomas Pugh, 29, and Ramanan Balasingham, 38. All are known to frequent the borough and are wanted in connection with serious assaults.

DCI Healy said: "While the Edmonton Green ward is in London's top 30 most violent wards, violence across the borough is sporadic."

"Officers are also working with the council to ensure that licensing legislation is being enforced and they will be enforcing the dispersal zone in Fore Street, Edmonton, and Enfield Town, as well as the no-drinking zones, of which there are a number across the borough."

The Met believes that the spike in violent offences can be attributed to improved recording practices rather than a rise in violence as such.

Reported incidents of domestic violence rose by 34 per cent in Enfield. DCI Healy said this was likely due to an increase in the number of people reporting this crime.

He added: "I believe more victims are coming forward because more people feel that they can take action against an abusive partner and change their lives."

There was plenty of good news for the Met in Enfield, with burglary offences down by 10 per cent and theft of or from motor vehicles reduced by a fifth between October 2012 and October 2013.

Operation Equinox will be running until the start of the new year.

Columnist

Jane Johnson

Enfield Borough Commander

IN Enfield we are getting ready for the winter and the darker days. We are always looking ahead to plan for the challenges we will face so we can plan our operations and don't get caught out.

At home I have just had my burglar alarm serviced. It's been a year now since I was burgled. I want to be ready for the clocks going back and the fact that burglary goes up from October to January.

It's good advice to check your security at this time of the year and there are a few really simple things you can do, including timer switches on your lights, a radio left on when you're out and, in particular, making sure you lift the handle on your uPVC door before you lock it.

Looking across London there are challenges with a rise in violent crime. We also have a rise in Enfield and we've been looking at the causes.

Across London there will be a surge in the policing effort in the weeks up to Christmas.

In Enfield we know our gangs cause us problems, we know that Halloween, Guy Fawkes and the Christmas party season can cause violent crime as things occasionally get out of hand.

Last week I worked nights covering the whole of north London. Aside from this being a complete shock to my system being up all through the night, what was really driven home to me were the challenges the Met faces as a result of public sector budget savings.

We must work very closely in partnership, for example, with the NHS and the ambulance service so we all understand how we can help each other in these challenging times.

The stark truth about young jobless

I'M sure Nick de Bois would like to disown the record of his government, but the facts speak for themselves ("MP's anger over poll rival's claims on youth jobless", Advertiser, October 15).

According to the independent Office for National Statistics, long-term youth unemployment in Enfield North has increased dramatically under this government. Compared with May 2010, there are three times more 18 to 24-year-olds living in Enfield North who have been out of work for a year or more.

As my leaflet says, if a Labour government is elected next year we will guarantee a real, paid job, preferably in the private sector, to every 18 to 24-year-old who has been claiming Job Seeker's Allowance for more than a year.

Instead of employing smear tactics, Mr de Bois should explain to the people of Enfield North why he has consistently opposed sensible measures such as Labour's Jobs Guarantee to get young people in Enfield back into work.

Joan Ryan
Labour Prospective Parliamentary Candidate for Enfield North

Keep informed on hospital site plans

THE Royal Free London NHS Hospital Foundation Trust planning application for the future use of the Chase Farm Hospital site is to come forward on November 21 at an Enfield Council planning committee meeting.

The plans can be viewed at the council offices before this and comments or objections registered by residents.

The site has been split into three parcels of land, one-third for NHS use, the other two-thirds are mainly for mixed housing, with a smaller site for a junior school.

Much of the hospital site is to be demolished and, on the new allocated land, flat-roofed prefabricated hospital buildings, which I describe as pods, will be assembled off-site and stacked on-site to four storeys high, the largest at the bottom, which will allow extra pods to be added as needed, like an added theatre, or toilet. There will be areas of space on the site undeveloped for possible future use.

We were assured that there is no possibility of the A&E returning to Chase Farm or the consultant-led maternity and children's services. There will be an assessment area for the elderly and children, but the qualification of staff to do this, I am unaware of.

There will be an urgent care centre there manned by GP and nurse coverage and a possible GP surgery supplied by Enfield's GP Clinical Commissioning Group.

There will be outpatient clinics and an elective care unit which will carry out straightforward operations only, like hernia, hip and knee operations.

There will also be a maternity unit, but this will only be an outpatient service, not a midwife birthing unit.

For any questions that you may like answered or dates of future meetings, there is this email address – rf.cfhstakeholders@nhs.net

Among concerns are prefabricated buildings, which can be assembled and demolished quickly, and APMS (Alternative Provider Medical Services), which could see the private sector provide some NHS services.

Licences needed to stop rogue landlords

I WRITE further to the letter from Mr Tibbey in last week's Advertiser ("Landlord licences: Tenants the losers").

I am sure that Mr Tibbey is one of the responsible majority of landlords.

Unfortunately, here at Citizens' Advice Bureau we regularly see tenants who are unfortunate enough to rent from one of the small minority of "rogue" landlords and who are living in appalling housing conditions.

Our home visits officer has seen properties so damp that water is running down the walls.

Such housing conditions cause physical and mental ill health in those unlucky to live in them.

These landlords are often undercutting reputable landlords by offering cheap, poorly maintained and badly managed accommodation.

Licensing is one tool which can help to create a level playing field, so decent landlords who are investing in the proper management, maintenance and repair of their property will no longer be undercut by an unscrupulous minority who avoid their responsibilities.

It is in no-one's interests for Enfield to get a reputation as an area filled with poor quality private rented homes afflicted by antisocial behaviour.

Jill Harrison
Chief executive officer,
Enfield CAB

Israel stance is questioned

I HAVE just watched (and read about) an interview David Burrowes gave in Israel.

Firstly, the MP for Enfield Southgate introduce himself as a member of a delegation of parliamentarians from across the world. That is misleading. He should have mentioned that his trip was organised by the Israeli Allies Caucus.

When he speaks about this trip back in the UK, he must mention IAC and he should give a brief account of that organisation.

In an interview he refers to the West Bank as Judea Samaria. Has that been his practice in the UK? If not, I trust that it will be in future.

He says he is opposed to boycotts, which is hard to believe. Surely he believes it was right to boycott South Africa?

Does he believe it is acceptable for Israel to export settlement goods which are labelled "produce of Israel"?

He visited the city of Ma'ale Adumim in the West Bank, which as he knows is a settlement condemned as illegal by the government, the UN, the EU and US, and spoke of it with admiration.

In doing so he greatly undermines the official position of the government. Does it trouble him that people were driven off their land, had their houses knocked down and were transported like cattle in lorries away from their homes in order to make way for Ma'ale Adumim?

Does it trouble him that this has happened all over the occupied territories and in Israel itself?

Does he accept that he is giving his approval to these crimes by speaking the way he does?

A third of GP practices don't have websites

Issue highlighted after complaints by patients

By Koos Couvée

koos.couvee@nlhnews.co.uk

MORE than one in three GP practices in the borough do not have a website, even though they will have to offer online appointments and prescription renewals from next April, a survey has found.

The lack of an online presence was revealed in a new report by Healthwatch Enfield, the borough's health watchdog, which launched an audit of 49 GP practices after it had been "inundated" with concerns from residents about GP services.

In particular, patients were having difficulties in making appointments and finding appropriate information about out-of-hours services.

The watchdog found that only 63 per cent of practices currently have their own website. This has raised concerns because from April 2015, it will be mandatory for GP practices to offer online appointments and prescription renewals.

Of those with a website, 94 per cent included information about how to complain and 90 per cent provided information about a patient participation group. However, only five websites included information on interpreting services that was easy enough for auditors to locate. Auditors found that 96 per cent of practices surveyed had correct out-of-hours information on their answer-phone message while only one, Freezywater Primary Care Centre, in Aylands Road, failed to include any message.

Healthwatch Enfield chief executive Lorna Reith said: "We believe it is important that patients have easy access to information and are pleased that most practices are providing this."

"Our audit highlighted areas where there were problems and we were also pleased at how quickly a number of practices came back to us to say they'd put things right."

"However, we remain concerned about the number of surgeries that appear to have no website and at the limited number who provide information about interpreters. We have raised this with both NHS England and the Enfield Clinical Commissioning Group."

A draft copy of the audit was sent to every practice in the borough and Healthwatch has been updating details on its website as and when practices provide them. For the most up-to-date information, visit www.healthwatchenfield.co.uk

Council makes grand gesture to credit union

£1,000 donation will help to combat loan sharks

By Koos Couvée

koos.couvee@nlhnews.co.uk

A CREDIT union has enjoyed a bumper payday thanks to a £1,000 donation from the council.

Enfield Credit Union was presented with a cheque after Enfield Council won the 2013 National Stop Loan Sharks Award, scooping a £1,000 prize.

The council wants to promote ethical banking and help the credit union, which is owned and controlled by its members, in its fight against loan sharks.

The money will be used to help residents manage their money more effectively and make people less likely to fall prey to loan sharks.

The union is offering the first 100 new customers £10 when they open a savings or loan account.

Chris Bond, cabinet member for environment and community safety, said: "Loan sharks are parasites preying on the poorest and most vulnerable members of society and we are determined to take them out when we find them, while helping people who are falling prey to them in the first case. I am delighted we have been able to support the Enfield Credit Union in supporting residents in managing their finances so they are less likely to fall victim to loan sharks.

"The whole community needs to work together to tackle this issue and I'm delighted with the support they are offering."

The funding comes as part of a wider effort to tackle illegal moneylenders.

The council is working in partnership with the government and Enfield Police to target unscrupulous moneylenders in the borough.

Last month Operation Borago saw four suspected loan sharks arrested at addresses in Enfield and Essex – and drugs, documents and large quantities of cash were recovered.

Mr Bond is urging residents who are involved with a loan shark to call the 24-hour confidential illegal moneylending hotline on 0300 555 2222 to obtain advice and support.

For advice on managing their finances, residents can also contact Enfield Citizens' Advice Bureau on 020 8375 4170.

Care costs can be covered by leasing homes

By Koos Couvée

koos.couvee@nlhnews.co.uk

ELDERLY residents who own property and are in long-term care are being urged to rent out their homes to families in need to help fund the cost of care.

Under the Keeping House scheme, which was launched in February, homes can be leased to the council for a fixed period of five years, with the authority guaranteeing rental income to the owner which can be put towards residential care costs.

Since the scheme's inception the council has reached agreement with families to lease 18 properties – and it believes there are about 80 other homeowners in the borough who are eligible.

Don McGowan, cabinet member for adult social care, said: "Throughout the period owners have peace of mind that their property is secure and well maintained and the regular rental income helps them to retain their savings. This is a solution for the property owners, the council and those in greatest housing need."

Flats, maisonettes, bungalows, houses with one, two, three bedrooms or larger are considered for the scheme and for properties needing repairs the council is prepared to cover up to 80 per cent of the work.

The council believes it is a win-win situation because, for people moving into long-term care, the cost, time and effort needed to maintain an empty property can prove challenging, while homes that remain unoccupied for lengthy periods often fall into disrepair and can attract antisocial behaviour.

The scheme is fully managed by the council, meaning that once a lease period is agreed, rent will be paid regardless of whether the property is occupied or not.

At the end of the lease period the property is returned to the owner, or the lease can be extended.

To find out more about the scheme a leaflet with details about eligibility, grant funding for renovation work and other advice can be downloaded from the council's website at www.enfield.gov.uk.

Property owners can register their interest by emailing adultsocialcare@enfield.gov.uk or by calling 020 8379 1001.

Heron Hall
ACADEMY

Together
we can succeed

Apply now for September 2015 student places!

We are delighted that Heron Hall is already proving to be such a success in the local community: As we embark on our second year of operation, we have just welcomed our new intake of 90 Year 7 students, which means we are at full capacity for 2014-15 and are having to operate a waiting list. Heron Hall has proved itself to be a happy and caring new school with students thriving in their new secondary environment.

In September 2015 we anticipate moving into our brand new, permanent campus in Ponders End, which will feature state-of-the-art facilities and accommodation, making our students' education and experience even more fulfilling and memorable.

We want not only to thank the local community for supporting our new academy but also to let you know that we are now accepting applications for next September, 2015 admissions.

Make sure you avoid disappointment by applying online or handing in your child's completed application into the school office by the deadline of 31st October.

Apply online at

Fire hits warehouse

Drama: Firefighters at the Eley industrial estate in Edmonton

A WAREHOUSE in Upper Edmonton was severely damaged by a fire on Monday night.

More than 55 firefighters were called out just after 9pm to tackle the blaze on the Eley industrial estate, in Meridian Way.

Three units were destroyed, but no one was injured, the London Fire Brigade said.

Eight fire engines from Edmonton and Enfield, as well as Chingford, Dagenham, Hendon, Homerton, Kentish Town and Walthamstow, rushed to the blaze.

The fire was brought under control just after 1am. The cause is being investigated.

Hands-on: Carla Learoyd helping Lucy Pitter, nine, make a lavender-scented pomander

Launch is in store

By Ruth McKee
ruth.mckee@nlhnews.co.uk

AN ENTREPRENEUR who started her business from a room in her home will be opening her first shop this weekend.

Carla Learoyd set up sewing company Beads and Bobbins in 2011. Ever since first offering her skills to the community in the form of making gifts and leading fun family workshops, her business has gone from strength to strength.

After wowing children with her classes and events earlier this year, Carla decided on a whim to enter the Enfield Innovation Awards with an idea to set up a shop which would act as a fun arts and crafts centre, focusing on workshops, as well as showcasing her own design and craft skills.

Judges were so impressed that she qualified for the finals of the contest where she won an award based on the creativity of her idea.

After being given such a confidence boost she is launching her new venture Hang Out The Bunting in the Meadway, Southgate, this Saturday.

Explaining what will be new about being based in a shop, the mum-of-two said she can host children's craft parties.

"Already that is an aspect of this business that is proving very popular," she said. "I have set up links with caterers and cake makers, so now I can provide a complete package for anyone who wants to do something a little creative for their child's birthday party."

Although she readily admits to being "a little scared" of the prospect of having to keep up rent and overheads on the new premises, she is also "excited" at the thought of being her own boss.

"I have had so much support from other local businesses and from my family that I feel confident that people in the local community will welcome me," she added.

Carla started off her professional life as a garden designer, but, after working seven-day weeks, she took time out to care for her two daughters. Now that her girls are aged 14 and 18, she says the time is right to embark on business once more.

Details about workshops, events and parties can be found by logging on to www.hangoutthebunting.co.uk

FORMER Labour MP for Enfield North Joan Ryan would re-take the seat if a general election was held today, a poll has predicted.

A survey by Tory peer Lord Ashcroft has found that, out of 1,000 residents polled, 44 per cent would vote Labour at the next general election, compared to 34 per cent who would vote for current Conservative MP Nick de Bois.

Enfield North will be a key battleground for both the Conservatives and Labour in the general election in May next year.

It is the fourth time Mr de Bois and Ms Ryan will be going head-to-head for the seat, with Ms Ryan victorious in 2001 and 2005 before Mr de Bois won the seat with a 1,692 majority in 2010.

The UK Independence Party is polling at 12 per cent, while the Liberal Democrats and the Green Party are both predicted to take three per cent of the vote.

Lord Ashcroft's poll found that Labour would take most votes from the Lib Dems, with more than half of those who voted Lib Dem in 2010 predicted to switch to Labour.

Nigel Farage's UK Independence Party would take 12 per cent of the Tory vote, compared to just five per cent of Labour voters predicted to switch to UKIP.

Mr de Bois acknowledged that the constituency would be a tough one for him to hold.

"The survey underlines that, given my narrow majority, anything but a vote for the Conservatives will deliver the re-election of Joan Ryan," he said. "At least in Enfield North, people have the benefit of being able to look at both our records as MPs and make an informed choice."

Ms Ryan added: "I think the poll indicates that people do not feel that this government is delivering what they need.

"But there is no room for complacency because the need for a change is great, people deserve better and we will have to work hard for every vote."

She said the three issues she would campaign on are the NHS, the cost of living and improving opportunities for young people in the constituency.

Mr de Bois added: "Over the coming eight months I am going to present a vision for the next five years while also reflecting on what has been delivered locally. I will put forward a positive agenda."

"Finding an alternative to bank finance was our recipe for success"

Teenager handed top Scouting role

By Ruth McKee

ruth.mckee@nlhnews.co.uk

A STUDENT from Brimsdown has turned his back on the stereotypical undergraduate life of lazy lie-ins and long afternoons in the pub in favour of serving the Scouting world.

Jagjeet "Jagz" Bharth, 18, of Lansbury Road, is currently studying football business and marketing at UCFB Wembley.

After 12 years with the Scout movement in Enfield, first with the 21st Enfield group and then with the Parker Bowles Explorer Scouts, he has just been selected as the first deputy youth commissioner for British Scouts.

A thrilled Jagz told the Advertiser that, despite the fact his new role will rule out some of the more decadent aspects of student life, he is thrilled to be able to give something back to the movement that has provided him "with so many opportunities".

"Scouting has changed my life," he explained. "When I was younger, I loved the adventurous side of things, I loved learning how to cook outdoors on a campfire and it opened so many opportunities up to me.

"And now that I'm older the volunteering side of things appeals to me. I want to pass on the things that I have learned to other young people and volunteering and doing things for other people impresses employers - it gives you a bit of an edge."

Jagz explains that the new role he will be performing is a way of the Scout movement reaching out to young people. "Everything shouldn't be decided by some 60-year-old man somewhere - to stay current the movement needs to listen to young people - and that's where myself and the other youth commissioners come in," he added.

Jagz says he was never put off by the fact Scouting isn't considered "cool" by some.

"When you look at the things you can do as a Scout - for example, I travelled to Peru and when you see something like the international Scout jamboree in Japan with 40,000 Scouts in one place - well, it is just incredible."

Jagz will be carrying out his new responsibilities on a voluntary basis alongside his university work.

COMPETITION

Night will relive magic of Motown

CELEBRATING 50 years of UK number one hit singles, The Magic of Motown is coming to Harrow Arts Centre at 7.30pm on Thursday, November 20, with its all-new Reach Out 2014 Tour – and we have a pair of tickets to give away.

In 1964, songs like Dancing in the Street, My Girl, Where Did Our Love Go?, My Guy and Baby Love rocketed Motown to the top of the singles charts. Incredibly, 100 more Motown number ones followed worldwide.

The Magic of Motown 2014 Reach Out Tour brings to the stage 36 of these chart-toppers back-to-back in one critically-acclaimed production.

Direct from the USA, The Magic of Motown delivers five-star performances that authentically revive the style and sophistication of everyone's favourite legends from the Detroit-based record label.

This year more number one songs than ever before feature. Classic hits from The Temptations, Four Tops, Jackson 5, Stevie Wonder, Marvin Gaye, Lionel Richie and The Supremes are packed into the two-hour spectacular.

To enter our competition, simply answer this question: In which American city was the Motown label founded? The first correct entry drawn will win a pair of tickets to the show.

Send your answer, with your name, address and a daytime telephone number, to: Motown Competition, North London & Herts Newspapers, 187 Baker Street, Enfield, EN1 3JT, or send your answer, with contact details, to competitions@nlhnews.co.uk, with "Motown" in the subject line, by noon on Wednesday, October 29.

There is no cash alternative. Usual rules apply. The editor's decision is final.

Night of hits: The Magic of Motown

Harrow Arts Centre is at Uxbridge Road, Hatch End, Middlesex, HA5 4AE. Tickets are £18 and concessions are a ten per cent discount for groups of ten or more. To contact the box office, call 020 8416 8989 or go to www.harrowarts.com

Big breakfast aids the work of carers

By Ozel Rowland

newsdesk@nlhnews.co.uk

FRY-UPS were on the menu as residents and cafes served up platefuls of their finest breakfasts at the weekend to raise awareness of young carers in the borough.

As a part of the Enfield Best Breakfast campaign, Enfield Carers Centre, in Baker Street, asked locals to whip up their best breakfast dishes in support of a new project aimed at helping young carers aged between 16 and 25.

Parent-carer Emma Cooper, 36, of Lavender Hill, Enfield, took part in the event, raising more than £500 after serving 100 bacon and egg butties to more than 80 guests on her driveway.

Her youngest son has learning difficulties and her older daughter is classed as a young carer.

She said: "Young carers definitely need all the help they can get, it's a hard job and they're unsung heroes really. Any help they can get would be very lovely for them."

This year 15 cafes took part, including Heritage Coffee and Tea Company, in The Broadway, Southgate, which had won the Enfield Best Breakfast award.

The cafe received a surprise visit from Deputy Mayor of Enfield Patricia Ekechi and a Gordon Ramsay lookalike last Friday to celebrate.

Owner Colin Johnson said: "It was wonderful. It was a really good surprise and great for the whole team and my customers who felt that we were worthy of it."

Of the campaign, he added: "I think taking part was a really great way of getting people like myself talking to customers and raising awareness, but it is something that needs to keep going. People

We'll drink to that: Support worker Roz Williams and carer Kiki Shiouxios at Baskervilles Tea Shop, in Aldermans Hill, Palmers Green

ple need to keep on talking about it."

Enfield Best Breakfast is linked to the nationwide campaign set up by the Carers Trust which encourages people to raise money and awareness for carers by holding a breakfast event.

Pamela Burke, chief executive of Enfield Carers Centre, said the campaign would help bring attention to Enfield's young adult carers.

She said: "It's more about the profile-raising for young adult carers than anything else. Many of them are preparing for their GCSEs or are about to go to college or university while caring for a family member or a relative at the same time, and often miss out at school or other social activities."

"Through this project we want to engage with an older age group to help them through a really crucial period in their lives."

Pride: Tas Panteli at the salon

Dragon Theo gives salon a thumbs-up

A BEAUTY salon has been given special recognition for its work by one of the original stars of hit TV show Dragons' Den.

Aveda Pure Salon, in Windmill Hill, Enfield, has been awarded a Small Business Sunday award by Theo Paphitis, one of the millionaires from the BBC series.

The salon won after owner Tas Panteli entered the competition by tweeting Mr Paphitis with a list of bullet points detailing why his business is the best.

"Every Sunday Theo Paphitis runs this competition where small businesses compete to get an endorsement from him," said Tas.

"I outlined why our business should win – our focus on young people, the treatments we offer and our involvement with the community."

Now Tas is looking forward to the awards ceremony in Birmingham in January.

"Of course, we are delighted," he added. "I know people who have won this award and it really benefits them as the businesses get a mention on his website."

Did you find Ruth's bag?

THE Advertiser is trying to hunt down a mystery good Samaritan.

Reporter Ruth McKee was cycling to work along London Road on Tuesday morning when she fell off her bike on to some cobblestones on a driveway.

Deeply embarrassed at her clumsiness right beside a packed 329 bus, Ruth hurried off on her bike – without checking that she still had both panniers attached to the back of it.

It was only when she reached the paper's offices in Baker Street that she realised she had left her bag, containing a purse, work clothes and personal items, in the street.

She went back to the scene, but he bag was nowhere to be seen and she resigned herself to the fact that someone had made off with it.

However, less than an hour later she received a call from Enfield Library telling her a good Samaritan had delivered her bag to the police station.

The police identified her from the library card in her purse – but had no way of contacting her so called the library, who had the number on file and called her.

But Ruth wants to find the person who saved her bacon to thank them personally.

"If anyone knows this mystery person, I would love to thank them, so please get in touch with the Advertiser," she said

Call us on 020 8370 5476 if you can help.

FAMILY ANNOUNCEMENTS

It's a diamond celebration for childhood sweethearts

By Ruth McKee

ruth.mckee@nlhnews.co.uk

TWO childhood sweethearts have revealed that the secret to their six decades of happy marriage is "kindness" and "consideration".

Audrey and Harold Mills celebrated their diamond wedding anniversary on Saturday with their ever-growing family.

After first setting eyes on Audrey when she was 12 years old, Harold, who was then 14, admitted it was "love at first sight".

World War Two interrupted their courtship as Harold joined up to fight the Nazis in 1943 when he was 17.

Despite being separated by distance and the ravages of war, the couple wrote to each other throughout the conflict, despite Harold admitting that in his tank division there was not much room to spare for storing love letters.

After Harold was demobbed in 1946, it was difficult to start a life together as the Blitz had left London with a severe post-war housing shortage.

"There was nowhere to live in those days," he told the Advertiser.

Of their 60 years together – they have lived at the same address in Goat Lane, Enfield, throughout – he added: "We have never had a row. That must be a record.

"The real secret to being happily married is to always be kind and considerate to each other."

Of the day of their wedding, the couple remember a "damp, miserable, rainy morning" in 1954.

ANNE WARE SANDERSON

Now and then: Audrey and Harold Mills have been married for 60 years following their wedding at St John's Church, in Clay Hill, North Enfield, on October 18, 1954

"They had the first bus strike on that day and so some of my relatives were stranded as they lived in Pinner and Harrow," recalled Harold.

"They managed to get to Oakwood, which was called Enfield West in those days."

Harold, who worked in the Clockhouse Nursery, in Forty Hill, Enfield, at the time went and picked up his relatives in one of the nursery's lorries.

"They all sat on boxes in the back of the lorry," remembered Audrey.

Even with the rain and bus strike, the whole family made it to St John's Church, in Clay Hill, North Enfield, where Harold was churchwarden.

The couple enjoyed a family get-together with their three children – Genine, 58, Andrea, 56, and John, 48 – their six grandchildren and eight great-grandchildren.

Battlefield covered in mud...and blood

FURY (15)

AT a critical juncture in David Ayer's wartime thriller, Brad Pitt's grizzled tank commander turns to an inexperienced new recruit and sounds the death knell on morality and diplomacy in a time of conflict.

"Ideals are peaceful, history's violent," he growls with an icy glare.

Those words resonate throughout Fury, a brutal, mud-spattered tour of duty during the final weeks of World War Two, as seen through the gun sights of an M4 Sherman tank crew on a collision course with Hitler's troops.

The film opens with Pitt's inspirational leader stabbing an unsuspecting German officer in the eye and Ayer repeatedly sates a thirst for close-up gore with expertly choreographed battle sequences and hand-to-hand combat between ground troops.

The bloodbath temporarily abates for brotherly banter inside the claustrophobic tank, but the air is always chokingly thick with impending doom.

Eight weeks after enrolling in the US Army as a clerk typist, Norman Ellison (Logan Lerman) is assigned the position of assistant driver in a tank christened Fury under the command of Sergeant Don "Wardaddy" Collier (Pitt).

The battle-weary veteran began the war in Africa and moved to Europe, killing numerous Germans along the way in the name of freedom.

Aided by the rest of his crew, Boyd Swan (Shia LaBeouf), Trini Garcia (Michael Pena) and Grady Travis (Jon Bernthal), Collier gives Norman an initiation he will never forget on a series of missions led by Captain Waggoner (Jason Isaacs) and Lieutenant Parker (Xavier Samuel).

Three other tanks commanded by Sergeant Binkowski (Jim Parrack), Sergeant Davis (Brad William Henke) and Sergeant Peterson (Kevin Vance) flank Fury as US soldiers push on towards Berlin.

"It will end soon," Collier assures Norman, "but before it does, a lot more people gotta die."

Fury paints a familiar picture of the hell of war, directed with testosterone-fuelled swagger by

Battle-hardened: Don 'Wardaddy' Collier (Brad Pitt) takes his tank crew on a series of missions

Ayer, who previously helmed the bombastic police thrillers End Of Day and Sabotage.

His script is studded with polished dialogue that doesn't quite ring true when, for instance, Collier berates thuggish Grady: "You're an animal. All you understand is fist and boot", or when Collier encourages Norman to sow his seeds with a pretty young German (Alicia von Rittberg) by purring: "She's a good clean girl. If you don't take her into that bedroom, I will."

Pitt leads the cast with a strong performance, holding back a tide of anguish and uncertainty until he is alone and can allow the sobs to shake his scarred body.

Lerman is equally compelling as a naive whelp, who develops a taste for killing Nazis.

Ayer obliges him with an astronomical body count and foreign fields slathered as far as the eye can see in mud, freshly spilt blood and the bodies of the fallen.

Have your say on the proposal for a new tunnel under the Thames at Silvertown

We'd like your opinion on a new tunnel at Silvertown, which is part of a package of proposed river crossings. The new tunnel will:

- Provide a new road crossing across the Thames
- Reduce queuing at the Blackwall Tunnel
- Support the creation of new jobs and homes
- Create the opportunity for new public transport connections

We'd also like your views on a proposed range of charging options for the Blackwall and Silvertown Tunnels. Charging would be implemented from the early 2020s once the Silvertown Tunnel construction is complete to help manage demand and fund the new tunnel.

To find out more please visit tfl.gov.uk/silvertown-tunnel or call 0343 222 1234*

Show changing lives

Inspiration: Tonya Bolton says her show has a big impact on some audience members

By Russ Lawrence

russ.lawrence@nlhnews.co.uk

FEW playwrights can claim members of their audience have been inspired to report rape and sexual violence to the police and seek counselling as a result of their show – but actress and author Tonya Bolton can.

Her thought-provoking, funny and engaging show, Holy and Horny, comes to the Dugdale Centre in Enfield Town on Friday as part of her latest UK tour.

The sold-out show, which sees Tonya play 20 different characters, tells the story of a frustrated Christian, Sheila, and her alter ego, Eve, a sexually uninhibited poet, as they embark on a series of disastrous dates with life-changing consequences.

Its creator and performer, Tonya, a Christian herself, has spent many years as an empowerment expert working with vulnerable young people and women at risk.

The show explores, through comedy, mime, physical theatre, song and poetry, the struggles between the sexual desire and spirituality of Christian women.

“The play breaks down taboos,” said Tonya. “Many members of Christian churches, together with other faiths such as Muslims and Sikhs, traditionally find it difficult to talk about sex and relationships. Some believe it is a sin to have any sexual feelings.

“It is a hidden issue. And it’s not just single women, but men as well and those who are married. It leads to them feeling isolated, frustrated, inadequate and confused.”

The show also looks at sexual violence and domestic abuse and offers help and advice. Several women, says Tonya, had reported they had been victims of sexual violence after seeing the show.

“Only the other week the play provoked a woman who had been date-raped and had kept it secret from her family, believing it was her fault, to go to seek counselling,” added Tonya.

TECHNOLOGY Vs EXPERIENCE?

With online technology offering an 'instant valuation' of your property some home owners have relied on Zoopla/Rightmove to give an indication of market value. However our experience is that whilst it may be reasonably accurate in some London Boroughs where there are streets of similar houses, Enfield and especially west Enfield has many different styles of properties from Georgian, Victorian, Edwardian, 1930s and every decade thereafter. Just drive or walk along The Ridgeway or Chase Side and their surrounding roads and you will see the diverse architecture.

Therefore you need an accurate reliable valuation and it is always best to turn to an experienced local agent/valuer who offers to visit your property for about 20 minutes, has over 35 years of experience selling thousands of homes in Enfield and its surrounds during that time, will be personable and not pushy, whilst providing you with accurate free advice on all aspects of your move.

ESTATE AGENTS

On Wednesday 8th October we celebrated the opening of our second office located on Aldermans Hill. Our Southgate branch expands our sales area into the Lakes Estate, Southgate and Arnos Grove. We have sympathetically restored the shop's original Edwardian features over the past 3 months resulting in a timeless shop front addition to the Alderman's Hill parade.

The new shop was officially opened by MP David Burrowes and the Deputy Mayor of Enfield, Patricia Ekechi, followed by a blessing by Father John a Greek priest at Demetrious Church in Edmonton.

Having built up a good reputation working alongside the local community in the Palmers Green area over the past 15 years, we continue to be a popular local independent estate agent. Look out for our free monthly Palmers Green & Southgate LIFE magazine.

If you are looking to sell or rent your property please contact our office today, we will be happy to help you.

Keep up to date with Anthony Webb's news by following us on facebook and twitter.

ERIKSEN UPBEAT DESPITE DEFEAT

By Dominique Stafford

sport.enfield@nlhnews.co.uk

CHRISTIAN ERIKSEN insists that Tottenham Hotspur can build on the positives from Saturday's display against Manchester City, even though they ultimately suffered a heavy defeat at the hands of the Premier League champions.

Spurs held their own for long spells, but were eventually beaten 4-1 by a Sergio Aguero-inspired City – with the Argentinian scoring all four goals for the hosts.

However, Roberto Soldado missed a penalty for Tottenham when they were trailing 2-1 and Eriksen – who scored their goal – feels that they can take heart from their performance.

"We were in the game for long periods," he said. "If Robbie had been luckier with the penalty then we would have been in the game even more."

"These are the key moments and if we don't score ourselves, they have the players to score and – unluckily for us – they did that."

"But I think we can build on this performance, especially in the first half and the beginning of the second half."

"We were getting tired towards the end and it's never easy when you are down to ten men. We tried, sometimes we had good solutions. Sometimes we could have kept the ball more but, again, we can build on this."

Soldado's penalty miss came on 61 minutes, and the striker – starting his first league game of the season – was thwarted by another fine save from City keeper Joe Hart soon after, before the match was effectively decided when Aguero scored from the spot for a second time after Federico Fazio saw red for a professional foul.

"It was an open game for both sides," Soldado said. "We had chances to score in the first half and later to go on to win the game."

"In the second half we had the opportunity with my penalty to make it 2-2, but after this when Federico got the red card the game was over. I felt good on the pitch and my confidence was up when I went to take the penalty, but the keeper saved it."

"One minute after my penalty I had another attempt with my left foot which was close, but the keeper saved with his legs. It was a big opportunity for us as well, but it wasn't possible to score."

"Five minutes later Aguero scored and we got a red card, and that finished the game. It was a good performance and we wanted the three points, but it didn't happen."

Soldado added: "Now we need to forget this game ahead of Thursday and Sunday's matches and look forward."

"We are producing some good performances and we need to keep this going. I am working hard and I think the goals are going to come."

Staying positive: Christian Eriksen believes that Spurs can build on their display against Manchester City

Table-topping Borough seal crushing win

DARRELL COX and Oscar Williams both scored twice as Haringey Borough enjoyed another goal glut on Saturday.

Borough, who have already scored ten in a match this season, put Ilford to the sword on this occasion as they romped to a 7-1 victory to maintain their comfortable lead at the top of the Essex Senior League table.

However, the match was not as one-sided as the scoreline suggests – with Borough keeper Ashley Harris called into action as much as his opposite number – but the quality of the finishing proved to be the main difference between the teams.

Cedric Lakole gave Borough a sixth-minute lead before Fabian Brown grabbed an equaliser with a deflected shot on 33 minutes.

But Cox restored Borough's advantage soon after, and Dean Fenton added a third deep into first-half stoppage time.

Walid Matata's successful penalty four minutes after the interval effectively sealed Borough's win, and Cox struck again with 14 minutes left before Williams came off the bench to grab a late brace and seal the crushing triumph.

Meanwhile, a weakened Borough side bowed out of the London Senior Cup at the first hurdle as they lost 4-3 in a thrilling game at Erith Town last Tuesday.

Daniel Aristidou gave Borough

the lead, only for Dominic Weston to level the scores prior to the interval.

Antoine Roberts restored the visitors' advantage on 53 minutes, but Erith again hit back and goals from Thomas Tayler and Jamie O'Connell put them in front.

Although Williams grabbed an equaliser for Borough on 73 minutes, the hosts were not to be denied and Marcus Cassius struck deep in stoppage time to give them the win.

Haringey Borough, who stood six points clear at the top prior to last night's trip to Eton Manor, go to Sawbridgeworth Town on Saturday (3pm), and host Sporting Bengal United on Tuesday (7.45pm).

Skolars confirm Broncos showdown

THE London Skolars have revealed that they will entertain the London Broncos in a pre-season friendly to officially open the refurbished New River Stadium on January 25.

The ground underwent a £4million renovation over the summer which led to the Skolars switching their home games to the Queen Elizabeth Stadium in Enfield.

But the work, which has seen a 4G pitch installed as well as new changing facilities, cafe and bar, has been completed and the Skolars will return to the ground for the 2015 season.

The game will also mark the start of the Skolars' 20th anniversary season celebrations, and as part of the day the Skolars will host a Broncos under-19 match to be played before the main event.

Meanwhile, the fixtures have been released for next year's expanded Kingstone Press League One, with the Skolars launching their campaign at home to Hemel Stages on April 3.

The Skolars will play a total of 22 league matches, including the annual Friday Night Lights fixture against North Wales Crusaders on August 22.

A new structure for League One means that the end of the season will see the top two teams face off for promotion, with the losers entering the play-off battle for the remaining promotion place.

There will also be a League One Cup next season, details of which are yet to be confirmed.

Skolars' head coach Joe Mbu said: "The competition has obviously expanded, and this brings some tough opposition and a good chance to test ourselves against some well established sides."

"We are all looking forward to a tough pre-season, and have some exciting new signings to announce in the coming weeks."
